

Contributors to this issue (2/2008)

Michael Baun is Marguerite Langdale Pizer Professor of International Politics at Valdosta State University, where he teaches international and comparative politics in the Department of Political Science. He has published widely on the EU and European politics, including several journal articles on EU cohesion policy. He is the author of "A Wider Europe: The Process and Politics of European Union Enlargement" and "An Imperfect Union: The Maastricht Treaty and the New Politics of European Integration".

E-mail: mbaun@valdosta.edu

Carol M. Glen is a Professor of Political Science at Valdosta State University. Her teaching and research interests focus primarily on international relations and organizations, as well as international political economy. She has published articles in a variety of professional journals on topics that include, EU political and economic integration, EU regional policy, EU-China relations, the UN's global security role, and multilateral cooperation.

E-mail: cmglen@valdosta.edu

Dan Marek is Jean Monnet Lecturer in European Politics at the Department of Politics and European Studies, Palacky University, Czech Republic. His teaching and research interests include EU's Regional Policy, EU's institutional reforms, and EU's external relations. He is an author of numerous articles published in various professional journals (Journal of Common Market Studies, Journal of International Relations and Development, Publius, Regional and Federal Studies, Journal of International Relations etc.).

E-mail: dmarek@tiscali.cz

Markéta Šustková is a Senior Lecturer at the Department of Politics and European Studies, Palacky University, Czech Republic. Her teaching and research interest include area of European integration, minorities in Central Europe and Italian political system. She has published articles that focus on Italian institutional reforms and political marketing.

E-mail: marketa.sustkova@upol.cz

Lucie Tunkrová is an Assistant Professor at Fatih University, Istanbul, Turkey. Her main areas of interests are enlargement of the European Union, euroscepticism, theories of the EU's decision making processes, political systems of Nordic countries and Turkish foreign policy. She is currently co-editing co-authoring the book The Politics of EU Accession: Turkish Challenges and Central European Experiences.

E-mail: ltunkrova@fatih.edu.tr