

CONTRIBUTORS TO THIS ISSUE (2/2011)

Lenka Kovačovská is a PhD candidate at the Jan Masaryk Centre for International Studies at the Faculty of International Relations at the University of Economic, Prague. She specialises on issues related to energy security (definitions, geopolitics of resources and resource nationalism), with the main focus on the energy security of the EU and its internal energy market. She is writing her PhD thesis on the influence of interest groups on the creation of the internal market in electricity and natural gas.
Email: lenka.kovacovska@gmail.com.

Ondřej Filipec is a Ph. D. candidate at the Department of Politics and European Studies, Faculty of Arts at Palacký University in Olomouc. His research interests are focused on the WMD issues and European Union. Author is currently writing a Ph. D. thesis about REACH. Email: ondrej.filipec@upol.cz.

Michael Brtnický is a Ph. D. candidate at the Department of Politics and European Studies, Faculty of Arts at Palacký University in Olomouc. His research interests are focused on the European Union's foreign policy; foreign policy, political systems, authoritarianism and political transitions in the Middle East and North Africa, Islamism. Email: michael.brtnicky@upol.cz.

Petr Fojtík is a Ph. D. candidate at the Department of Politics and European Studies, Faculty of Arts at Palacký University in Olomouc. His research interests include Enlargement of the European Union, Western Balkan countries, Kosovo status, Political Geography and Geopolitics. Email: petr.fojtik@yahoo.com.

Tomáš Hoch is a scientific-pedagogical employee of the Department of Human Geography and Regional Development at the University of Ostrava. He holds MA and since 2011 also Ph.D. degree in Political and Cultural Geography at the University of Ostrava. His research interests are focused on the issues of conflict resolution, development cooperation, unrecognized states in the Caucasus region and the policy towards countries of the global South. Email: tomas.hoch@osu.cz.

Bedrudin Brljavac is a Ph.D. student at the Department of Political Science at University of Sarajevo,. His research interests include Transnational Relations, Multilateralism, Europeanization, EU Enlargement Policy, Democratization Theory, International Organizations, Transatlantic relations, Turkish Foreign Policy, and Western Balkans Politics. Email: bedrudin07@yahoo.com.